

How You Can Help

Elephant Appreciation Day

Delivering Excellence in Elephant Care and Welfare

Adopt an elephant at your local zoo.

Don't buy ivory products. Elephants are poached or killed illegally to harvest their ivory.

Support elephant conservation efforts of wildlife organizations like Disney's Worldwide Conservation Fund.

Read a book or magazine article to learn more about elephants.

Focus your next school project on elephants and share it with your class.

Bulwagi
(male)

Born: 03/03/1981
Weight: 12,300 lbs

Maclean
(male)

Born: 07/1985
Weight: 9,700 lbs

Willy
(male)

Born: 07/1979
Weight: 12,850 lbs

Training can enhance elephant welfare and assist with management procedures by improving daily care. Through effective training, elephants actually cooperate in their own health care such as foot check-ups.

Donna
(female)

Born: 1988
Weight: 6,800 lbs

Moyo
(female)

Born: 10/11/1981
Weight: 7,900 lbs

Rafiki
(female)

Born: 1979
Weight: 8,900 lbs

Thandi
(female)

Born: 03/11/1981
Weight: 8,000 lbs

Vasha
(female)

Born: 01/1986
Weight: 7,140 lbs

The elephant care team interacts with and educates Guests on elephant care, conservation and what it is like to be an elephant keeper.

Tufani
(male)

Born: 05/22/2003
Birth weight: 296 lbs

Relatives: Moyo is Tufani's mother. Tufani and Tsavo are brothers.

Kianga
(female)

Born: 07/06/2004
Birth weight: 230 lbs

Relatives: Vasha is Kianga's mother. Kianga and Nadirah are half sisters.

Nadirah
(female)

Born: 12/19/2005
Birth weight: 233 lbs

Relatives: Donna is Nadirah's mother.

Tsavo
(male)

Born: 06/27/2008
Birth weight: 327 lbs

Relatives: Moyo is Tsavo's mother. Tsavo and Tufani are brothers.

Elephants eat about 300-400 pounds of food a day! A majority of their diet is on exhibit to encourage natural foraging behavior.

Cleaning up after a herd of elephants is always an important job.

